

Members of the Federal Communications Commission,

Regarding the matter of Indiana's Do Not Call List and the complaint filed by CBA, I strongly urge you to reject the CBA's request to invade my privacy. In this day of countless cable television channels, e-mail, web site and web advertisements there is no need for anyone to call me for any reason with a solicitation.

Might I miss the opportunity to better my finance rate by a quarter percent? Yes, I might. However, I will happily take the responsibility of seeking out information and opportunities in exchange for the right to choose when I have conversations about these, or any, commercial transaction.

Please respect my choices and the hard work done by my State's Legislators: leave Indiana's Do Not Call Law intact.

Respectfully,

Ken Willard
